

Welcome to the Summer 2011 JAG newsletter. The school year is just beginning and we are looking forward to filling you in on an eventful summer for us in JAG. This summer was highlighted by fun, food, and of course summer work. Many of the JAG students took advantage of the extra hours to make a little bit of money and gain priceless work experience. We used this summer as an organization to help this process of job attainment occur. I am happy to report that most of our students who were seeking employment accomplished that goal, and that many of our 2011 graduates also worked full time throughout the summer. However, we didn't forget to have some fun along the way. From Pirates Cove Mini Golf, to Peking Restaurant, to a night at Cinema 7 Movie Theatre, we used money raised throughout the year to get together as a student led organization as much as possible. Sometimes this was done formally, other times informally. One thing is for sure though....it was fun!

Specialist Speaks

Hello again, and welcome to the Summer 2011 JAG newsletter. The summer truly flew by, but was marked with several fun and eventful get togethers for me and the Kennett JAG student body. While summer can be stressful trying to help student's acquire full and part time employment, this summer also had its fair share of fun activities that really became the highlight of the summer for me. We work really hard as a student led organization to raise money throughout the year for these activities, and it is fun to see this hard work come to fruition in the form of social activities which always turn out to be worth the hard work in fundraising. I am looking forward to another great year at Kennett and hope we can keep the momentum from last year and this summer rolling!

Business of the Month

The business of the month for our summer recap JAG newsletter is Harrison Creative. Craig Harrison, owner of Harrison Creative which predominately is a graphic design company which also specializes in business planning and execution as well as photography was kind enough to donate over 300 books to the JAG book drive. These books we used to provide literature to many of the JAG students and hundreds were also donated throughout Kennett High School to teachers, students, and administration. Our sincere gratitude goes out to Craig Harrison for his generosity.

The Face of NH-JAG

Hi, my name is Brittany Bates and this is my second year in Kennett JAG. I am currently a sophomore here at Kennett High School and am enjoying the experiences it has brought my way. This summer was a mix of work and fun for me. I was lucky enough to gain employment like many of my fellow JAG members at Storyland in Glen New Hampshire and worked throughout the summer as ride operator. I was also able to attend some of the summer JAG socials which were fun. I am looking forward to the school year and continuing on with another year in JAG as well. We are going to focus a lot on community service as well as fundraisers which will allow us to raise money for various activities we hope to do over the coming year. It will be a challenge, but fun as well!

Summer Activities

Students in Downtown North Conway accept and complete a team building challenge this summer to create a picture using their shadows to create the object. Students were brought together throughout the summer in various settings for learning, job acquisition help, but often, simply just for fun!
